CRICKET.

AMATEUR CRICKET.

Amateur cricket may be described as a compromise between great activity, and great indolence. The greatest glut of run getting will often not trouble themselves to bowl half-a-dozen overs; and in the field will stand with their hands in their pockets and yawn. To get into the three figures remains an object of ambition to many an amateur after middle life even; but how very few fulfil the promise of their youth in the other branches of the game. Perhaps, their last season at school is the best period of their bowling, and the Oxford and Cambridge matches the best period of their fielding. There are, of course, exceptions to this, as all cricketers well know; but for all practical purposes the rule holds good. And for obvious reasons;—because bowling requires constant practice, and great patience, and fielding requires great activity and incessant watchfulness, and men have so much need of all these qualities for the real business of life, that they have little inclination as they grow up to bestow them on a game. Batting, on the contrary, is not only capital exercise, but what almost any one can attain to a certain amount of proficiency in without much trouble, particularly in these days of perfectly true grounds; and when you can get, as at Cambridge or Oxford, four or five professionals or bowlers to bowl at you all the afternoon, men prefer the excitement of hitting to the laborious practice of bowling. Then good fielding depends on the eleven playing constantly together and being well accustomed to one another; and this is rarely attainable after leaving the University.

Hence, the excellence of amateur play is its batting; its fielding breaks down for want of unity of action, and its bowling breaks down, because, as an Irishman would say, there is none. Consequently, it is very much better in amateur matches to have two professional bowlers on each side. It simplifies the matter very much; it gives greater equality to the sides and it prevents matches from being spun out to an inordinate length. Nothing can be so exasperating as to bowl out during the whole of a brilliant July day, to villainous bowling. It is a common thing in the gentlemen matches on the Brighton ground for a thousand runs (in round numbers) to be got in the three days' play, and for the match then to be as far as ever from being finished. The game then ceases to be an amusement and becomes an intolerable nuisance, and we look back with regret at the old-fashioned, good-humoured games on a rough country ground, where the four innings were got through comfortably in one day. Lord's was, in my mind, the best ground in England to play on, because the bowler had a chance the ground being quick and "ricky," and the batsmen had a chance, because the ball travelled wonderfully fast, and a successful innings was appreciated at its worth, five and twenty runs at Lord's being equal to sixty at the Oval. Different proposals have been made to obviate the inconveniences of the perpetually recurring drawn matches of the last few years. The number of the stumps should be increased to four, the width of the bat should be reduced, the batsmen should be handicapped, &c. &c.; but no one has suggested the most evident remedy, namely, to make the preparation of the ground less elaborately perfect. Perpetual rolling, watering, and watering, together with the removing of every inequality of the size of a pin's head, so effectively takes all life out of the turf, that the best bowler will invariably try to put any work, break or devil into his bowling. The wickets on the Brighton ground are so laboriously prepared, and so saturated with abundant watering, that the ball will not rise six inches. Will, about the first bowler of his day, has bowled there for a whole day against a by no means first class batting eleven without getting a single wicket. At Lord's he would have probably disposed of the same team for less than a hundred runs.

Let us have wickets, not dangerous indeed, but not ridiculously adapted for batsmen only, and we shall not only find a speedy reduction of gigantic scores, and a less average, but also many amateurs will be tempted to take up bowling again.

There is one vice which has crept into amateur cricket, but which, I fervently hope, will be speedily eradicated. I allude to the practice, unfortunately too prevalent, of paying gentlemen-players. Very likely, many good players cannot afford to go out to distant matches. Then, in heaven's name, let them stop at home. There is no disgrace in that. But for people calling themselves gentlemen to start it through the while more money than the professionals themselves, this is degrading a splendid game to a mercenary business, and cannot be too strenuously resisted by all well-wishers to cricket.—Land and Water.

HUNTING.

EXTRAORDINARY RUN WITH LORD GALWAY'S HOUNDS.—These favourite hounds met on the 25th ult., at Ashton Hall, where there was a large and gallant field. Many went the inquiries as to the noble master of the pack, Lord Galway, and the satisfactory news was gladly received that he was going on favourably. After a short delay the order was given for Spring Wood, where a very fine fox was soon found, and was driven out of his snug quarters. He made for Ulley, crossing the Ulley and Langton road for Finch Mill. Thence by Wickersley Common to Slack's Gorse, which, however, he did not enter. Turning to the right by Mr. Wheatcroft's at Thorpe's Moor, Reynard skirted Brampton Gorse and went through Mr. Athorpe's shrubbery, at Dinington, to Anston Orags. Here he turned to the right, and by the low end of Kiverton park to Nickerwood. At this time the hounds pushed him to his best pace. Away he went to Swallow Nest, and thence made for his old quarters at Spring Wood. Driven out of it, he went off in the same direction as at first, by Ulley and Over Whiston, again reaching Slack's Gorse, where he sought shelter, but he had no time to make himself at home before the hounds compelled him to break cover. He tried Mort Wood and Lea Wood. Here the dogs were very close upon him. Reynard sought Brampton Quarries again, and turning to the right, he made for Mr. Moss's farm, at Ulley. This gallant fox had now been hunted for three hours and a half, he had tired out almost the whole field, and it was found necessary to call off the hounds. The scent was not first-rate, and the chase gave occasion for the exercise of all Morgan's tact and skill, which were the admiration of every one competent to judge. One of the most devoted of the huntmen declared it to be the best day's sport he had had for many years.

A LADY'S LEAP.—An exciting incident, says the York Herald, occurred recently in connection with the meet for the day's run with Lord Middleton's hounds. Mrs. Sarony, of Scarborough, who is known to be about the best horsewoman in the neighbourhood, had mounted for trial a horse she desired to purchase. After leaving Scarborough, Mrs. S. with other riders, entered Jackson's lane, when suddenly her horse started off at the top of his speed, and distanced all his companions through the line. The gates were all open save one, a very high gate, which the spectators fully believed would bring the horse up. But not so; for with a surprising leap he cleared the gate, alighting on a slack ground on the other side, and shooting away again, ran his halter skelter race, madly and hotly for about three miles, Mrs. Sarony keeping her seat in the most dashing and courageous manner. Not knowing, however, where or how the caprice of the animal might end, she prudently determined to wait for an opportunity to slip off. Having passed through Cayton, like Johnny Gilpin, all battles the while, Mrs. Sarony prepared to part company with her horse, and having succeeded in drawing him on one side, she dexterously slid from the saddle, and alighted on the grassy bank at the roadside, singularly and fortunately without the slightest injury. The horse still kept on until he had passed Killbury Hall some distance, when he was captured and sent home. Mrs. Sarony went to the Hall, where she was kindly received by Mrs. Clarke. Mrs. S. was so little dismayed by her adventure, that next day she joined the hounds at Hackness, where she received the congratulations of a numerous company of gentlemen on her safety, and expressions of admiration of the courage and skill she had displayed in her involuntary flight of the previous day.

The Carlisle Mercury states that Mrs. Longworth-Yelverton will give a reading in the Music Hall, Edinburgh, on the evening of the 16th.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT.

Parliament was opened on Tuesday by her Majesty in person. The following is—

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.

My Lords and Gentlemen,
It is with great satisfaction that I have recourse to your assistance and advice.

I have recently declared my consent to a marriage between my daughter Princess Helena and Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg. I trust this union may be prosperous and happy.

The death of my beloved uncle, the King of the Belgians, has affected me with profound grief. I feel great confidence, however, that the wisdom which he evinced during his reign will animate his successors, and preserve for Belgium her independence and prosperity. My relations with foreign Powers are friendly and satisfactory, and I see no cause to fear any disturbance of the general peace.

The meeting of the fleets of France and England in the ports of the respective countries has tended to cement the amity of the two nations and to prove to the world their friendly concert in the promotion of peace.

I have observed with satisfaction that the United States, after terminating successfully these severe struggles in which they were long engaged, are wisely repairing the ravages of civil war. The abolition of slavery is an event calling forth the cordial sympathies and congratulations of this country, which has always been foremost in showing its abhorrence of an institution repugnant to every feeling of justice and humanity.

I have at the same time the satisfaction to inform you that the exertions and perseverance of my naval squadron have reduced the slave trade on the West Coast of Africa within very narrow limits.

A correspondence has taken place between my Government and that of the United States with respect to injuries inflicted on American commerce by cruisers under the Confederate flag. Copies of this correspondence will be laid before you.

The renewal of diplomatic relations with Brazil has given me much satisfaction, and I acknowledge with pleasure that the good offices of my ally, the King of Portugal, have contributed essentially to this happy result.

I have to regret the interruption of peace between Spain and Chili. The good offices of my Government, in conjunction with those of the Emperor of the French, have been accepted by Spain, and it is my earnest hope that the causes of disagreement may be removed in a manner honourable and satisfactory to both countries.

The negotiations which have been long pending in Japan, and which have been conducted with great ability by my Minister in that country, in conjunction with the representatives of my allies in Japan, have been brought to a conclusion which merits my entire approbation. The existing treaties have been ratified by the Mikado; and it has been stipulated that the tariff shall be revised in a manner favourable to commerce, and that the indemnity due under the terms of the Convention of October, 1854, shall be punctually discharged.

I have concluded a treaty of commerce with the Emperor of Austria, which I trust will open to that empire the blessings of extended commerce, and be productive of important benefits to both countries.

The deplorable events which have occurred in the Island of Jamaica have induced me to provide at once for an impartial inquiry, and for the due maintenance of authority during that inquiry, by appointing a distinguished military officer as Governor and Commander of the Forces. I have given him the assistance of two able and learned commissioners, who will aid him in examining into the origin, nature, and circumstances of the recent outbreak, and the measures adopted in the course of its suppression. The Legislature of Jamaica has proposed that the present political constitution of the island should be replaced by a new form of government. A bill upon this subject will be submitted to your consideration.

Papers on these occurrences will be laid before you.

Papers on the present state of New Zealand will be laid before you.

I have given directions for the return to this country of the greater portion of my regular forces employed in that colony.

I watch with interest the proceedings which are still in progress in British North America with a view to a closer union among the Provinces, and I continue to attach great importance to that object.

I have observed with great concern the extensive prevalence, during the last few months, of a virulent distemper among cattle in Great Britain, and it is with deep regret, and with sincere sympathy for the sufferers, that I have learnt the severe losses which it has caused in many counties and districts. It is satisfactory to know that Ireland and a considerable part of Scotland are as yet free from this calamity, and I trust that by the precautions suggested by experience, and by the Divine blessing on the means which are now being employed, its further extension may be arrested.

The orders which have been made by the Lords of my Privy Council by virtue of the powers vested in them by law, with a view to prevent the spreading of this disease, will be laid before you, and your attention will be called to the expediency of an amendment of the law relating to a subject so deeply affecting the interests of my People.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,
I have directed that the estimates of the ensuing year shall be laid before you. They have been prepared with a due regard to economy, and are at the same time consistent with the maintenance of efficiency in the public service.

The condition of trade is satisfactory.

My Lords and Gentlemen,
A conspiracy, adverse alike to authority, property, and religion, and disapproved and condemned alike by all who are interested in their maintenance, without distinction of creed or class, has unhappily appeared in Ireland. The constitutional power of the ordinary tribunals has been exerted for its repression, and the authority of the law has been firmly and impartially vindicated.

A bill will be submitted to you founded on the Report of the Royal

THE CUP PRESENTED BY THE LATE W. F. WINDHAM TO JEM MACE.

Commission, on the subject of capital punishment, which I have directed to be laid before you.

Bills will be laid before you for amending and consolidating the laws relating to bankruptcy, and for other improvements in the law. Measures will also be submitted to you for extending the system of public audit to branches of receipt and expenditure, which it has not hitherto reached, and for amending the provisions of the law with respect to certain classes of legal persons.

Your attention will be called to the subject of the oaths taken by members of parliament, with a view to avoid unnecessary declarations, and to remove invidious distinctions between members of different religious communities in matters of legislation.

I have directed that information should be procured in reference to the rights of voting in the election of members to serve in parliament for counties, cities, and boroughs.

When that information is complete, the attention of parliament will be called to the result thus obtained, with a view to such improvements in the laws which regulate the rights of voting in the election of members of the House of Commons as may tend to strengthen our free institutions, and conduce to the public welfare.

In these and in all other deliberations, I fervently pray that the blessing of Almighty God may guide your counsels to the promotion of the happiness of my people.

AQUATICS.

HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE

	MORNING.	AFTERNOON.
SATURDAY, Feb. 10.....	30 min past 9	0 min past 10
SUNDAY.....	39 min past 10	19 min past 11
MONDAY.....	47 min past 11	9 min past 12
TUESDAY.....	29 min past 10	54 min past 0
WEDNESDAY.....	16 min past 1	38 min past 1
THURSDAY.....	50 min past 1	20 min past 2
FRIDAY.....	40 min past 2	0 min past 3
SATURDAY.....	19 min past 3	40 min past 3

In calculating the time of High Water at Chelsea, 35 minutes must be added to that given at London Bridge; 59 minutes must be added for Putney; Hammersmith is one hour later; Barnes, 1 hour and 10 minutes; Kew, 1 hour and 30 minutes; and Richmond, 1 hour and 50 minutes later than London Bridge.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE.

GILLENDER V. CARR, ON MONDAY NEXT, ON THE TYNE.

The boating season of '66 on the Tyne will be inaugurated in a couple of days, when the brave men will measure blades for 50 yds.; the distance agreed on being from the big bridge to Waterfront factory gates, which overtops a mile in extent by a few yards. Although the match has been in preparation for several weeks, the interest consequent on the settlement of the event has not by any means exceeded a common-place kind; the contest was quietly made, the various sums have been periodically staked, and so far the respective condition of the rowers goes very far to show that a right down honest spin is meant, and that it will be a tough job to pick out the most likely of the twain to carry off the honours. Gillender is being equipt by Bob Cooper, of Rod-bush, and Carr is daily piloted by Bob Chambers. The match on Monday will be Carr's maiden effort in the skill, but as he is given out to be a more than ordinary powerful young man, his friends reckon on an easy coup. Gillender's career is easily summed up; he won the junior sculler race at the Regatta in 1863, beating a host of other notables; he next met Tom Winslip, two miles, for £50, when he won, was afterwards defeated by Winslip for a similar stake, and a short time back he had also to cry enough to George Wakefield for a "half century." There is one important consideration in Gillender's favour for Monday's match, and that is his improved style and apparent increase of strength, which is a most marked and decided desideratum; therefore, as we rely on performance more than on dubious information, we should say that for the distance the "race is most unquestionably in Gillender's favour, and that we select him to pass the "flag boat" first. On Saturday last, at Bob Chambers, Newcastle, a further deposit of £5 each was posted; there was a large attendance, but little or no betting. The final deposit of £5 each will have to be made tonight at (Stables) at Mr. William Blakey's, Adelaide Hotel, Newgate-street, between eight and ten o'clock; a good assembly and much speculation is anticipated. Betting so far in Carr at 5 to 4, and in some cases a point higher has been invested, only to small sums however. The fullest report in our next.

JAMES TAYLOR AND THOMAS WINSHIP'S MATCH FOR £100.

We were perfectly correct in prognosticating an early meeting between these competent scullers, as will be seen by the following articles, which, in response to a challenge issued by Taylor, were drawn out on Saturday last at the Star Hotel, Newcastle, the sporting hostelry of Mr. J. B. Baird. Taylor last season showed in such wonderful form, that he was quickly acknowledged to be an oarsman of unquestionable swiftness, and likely to prove a source of trouble to his brother professionals, who, to say the least of it, prior to the Talkin Barn Regatta, looked on him, as far as rowing went, as a myth. What he did at Talkin Barn, alongside of the best of the Tyne representatives, and subsequently his glorious conquests over Matin and Wakefield, need not be detailed, nor is it at all likely that his defeated opponent care to rub salt in the bitterness of fortune which divested them of their long-worn honours so unexpectedly. What we said in this Journal on the 13th ult., under "The Season of 1865 on the Tyne Anticipated," we repeat. We have next James Taylor. He is some what a wonder, and by all means has proved himself to be what few thought him, a right down genuine oarsman, possessed of sculling abilities, as far as we see, only second to two on the Tyne. Taylor is a member of the Taylor crew, a famed combination of plucky rowers, who have for years battled against the fates, but at last with success. We see no other match for him save Tom Winslip and James Percy, and before long the last mentioned and Taylor will meet in contention we are sure. So far then we are correct. Of Winslip, something extraordinary has generally been expected. He is brother of the champion four. On this score probably is based the fulcrum of opinion as to his merits as an oarsman. Tom is a well-behaved, muscular, well proportioned and firmly developed personage. He has only pulled three matches with Gillender for £50, when he was beaten, afterwards with the same party, and defeated easily for a like stake, and on the 24th ult. he was again for £50, when he also won with the greatest of ease. The match, if all goes on well, will take place on Easter Monday, probably about four o'clock in the evening. We give a copy of the articles with the assurance that every possible information about the progress of the match will be as usual, fully obtained in this Journal. Articles of match will be dated this day of February, 1866, between James Taylor, of Ouseburn, and Thomas Winslip, of Derwenthaugh, to row a straightaway scullers' race, from the High Level-bridge to the Meadows House, for £50 a side, on Easter Monday, April 2nd, 1866, one hour before high water according to tide table. Mr. Joshua Bagnall to be final stakeholder, £5 a side is now deposited in the hands of Mr. James H. Baird, Star Hotel, Northumberland-street, the next deposit of £10 a side to be made at the house of Mr. Edward Winslip, Poppy Banks Hotel, on the 17th Feb. 1866. The third deposit of £7 a side to be made at the house of Mr. James H. Baird, Star Hotel, Northumberland-street, on the 18th of March, 1866. The fourth deposit of £10 a side to be made at the house of Mr. William Blakey, Adelaide Hotel, on the 17th March, 1866. The last and final deposit of £20 a side to be at the house of Mr. Joshua Bagnall, Wheat Sheaf Inn, on the 31st day of March, 1866. All deposits to be made between the hours of eight and ten o'clock past midnight, according to rules and regulations of boat racing. Each party to choose an umpire and the umpires to choose a referee on the day of the race, whose decision shall be final in all cases of dispute. Either failing to comply with these articles shall forfeit all moneys down. Witness, JOHN A. BAIRD, THOMAS WINSHIP, JAMES TAYLOR.

in content we are sure. So far then we are correct. Of Winslip, something extraordinary has generally been expected. He is brother of the champion four. On this score probably is based the fulcrum of opinion as to his merits as an oarsman. Tom is a well-behaved, muscular, well proportioned and firmly developed personage. He has only pulled three matches with Gillender for £50, when he was beaten, afterwards with the same party, and defeated easily for a like stake, and on the 24th ult. he was again for £50, when he also won with the greatest of ease. The match, if all goes on well, will take place on Easter Monday, probably about four o'clock in the evening. Articles of match will be dated this day of February, 1866, between James Taylor, of Ouseburn, and Thomas Winslip, of Derwenthaugh, to row a straightaway scullers' race, from the High Level-bridge to the Meadows House, for £50 a side, on Easter Monday, April 2nd, 1866, one hour before high water according to tide table. ## Athletic Sports.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY ATHLETIC CLUB.

The University Athletic Club is in a most flourishing condition. Seldom has an institution of the kind such an admirable ground for training, as the piece at Fenner's. The grass is at present somewhat heavy going, but as both the University sports, and the inter-University contest, will take place on grass, moderate practice will rather be for the better. We should, however, advise our Cantab friends not to run too hard at this early period, but to defer running trials and matches until at least a fortnight before the coming meeting.

With regard to the chances of the competitors, we see Mr. Laws has once more donned the drawers, and we presume will contest the mile at Cambridge, with a view to again representing his University at Oxford, and of adding yet one more laurel to his well-earned fame. We miss the fine springy action which formerly characterised his running, but it is partially atoned for by increased strength and stamina. Great improvement is observed in Cheetham, of Trinity Hall, who, we think, will do a good thing some day. The Hon. F. Pelham is still the great quarter-of-a-mile performer, while Sans, of Peterhouse, may have a career before him. The fast running is at somewhat low ebb at Cambridge. We fancy, however, we see in Mr. Hood, of Trinity, a man who, with a little preparation, would cover the distance exceedingly well. So fast is his first fifty, that he has invariably led all sprint runners at that distance.

The grand old English sport of walking is as popular as ever here. Messrs. Dolg, Edmunds, and McKerrell, are the most distinguished at that branch of athletics. Would that the sister University deigned to practise the above art, for we perceive, that they do not is the published excuse for omitting walking in the coming programmes.

CAPTURE OF A BEAR.

Mr. E. M. Dixey, of West Haven, informs us that as Mr. John S. Barrett, of that place, was out deer-hunting on Dresden Mountains, New York, between Lake Champlain and Lake George, he discovered at a short distance, a pile of dirt which attracted his attention, and having reached the place he saw it was evidently the work of some wild animal. Stooping down he looked into the mouth of the hole, but being somewhat snow-blind he saw nothing at first; but in a moment his hopes were more than realized, by discovering a monstrous black bear snugly stowed away in his winter quarters. Having no one to assist him, he laid aside his coat and mittens, and with commendable coolness proceeded to despatch Old Bruin. Taking his rifle in his right hand and a stick in his left, and getting close to the mouth of the hole, he proceeded to punch old Bruin with the stick. The bear gave a low growl, but made no effort at first to redress the wrong; but a more effectual stab brought him to his senses, and caused him to raise his head just in time to receive a well-directed ball from the hunter's rifle, which, with another, ended his existence, of probably not less than 15 or 20 years. The bear was killed on Saturday, Dec. 23d, and was brought to West Haven on Monday. After being dressed, the carcase and hide weighed 285 pounds. It would probably have weighed 350 when captured. The entire length of skin was 73 feet, and has been sold for 22 dollars. The total value of the bear is estimated at 75 dollars. Pretty good day's work that.

A DOG STORY.

A New Orleans paper gives the story of "a notice lecture 'avg,' and how he frightened a firm of furniture auctioneers: "It was a sale day, and the array of porters and warehousemen were in the full hurry of preparation, when up drives a furniture car filled with as dilapidated an assortment of household goods as the poverty of man was ever reduced to possessing. High on the top of all was mounted a gigantic bull-terrier, whose size, ugliness, and ferocious appearance were most appropriate to the articles surrounding him. The car had scarcely looked up to the banquet when half a dozen men rushed up to unload it. Strange to relate, no hand touched an article of its dingy contents, for a growl, that sounded more like the howl of a fiend than anything animal, started all back in horror and amazement. The dog, taught in times gone by to protect his master's property, or shocked at the remorseless idea of disposing of his household goods for filthy lucre, planted himself firmly in the rear of the car, and managed by a system of contortions, gyrations, and other outbursts of emotion, to so bewilder the assailants as to utterly frustrate their design. The hopeful canine had almost succeeded in delaying the sale of his master's furniture until another day, when the gentleman arrived and quieted his amiable follower."

RACING IN TENNESSEE.—On the 19th of January, at Nashville, Tennessee, a match for 300 dols. a side was run between Oaltawa and Mr. Pennock's colt Jocrisse. It was mile heats, three in five. At the commencement of the race the betting was even, but when Oaltawa had won the first heat, three to one was offered and nobody took it. Jocrisse was very easily defeated in three heats. The time was 2:06—2:04—2:04. Our Nashville friends look for fine sport at their spring meeting.

No less than 50 aspirants to pedestrian fame entered the list, and these were ranged in fifteen heats, the final heat on Monday last ending in a dead heat for first prize (£4) between Mr. Quinn a youth, 24 yards start, and W. # CHARLEY CARROLL, THE CELEBRATED LIGHT-WEIGHT JOCKEY.

(See accompanying Portrait.)

THE WINNING PERFORMANCES OF CHARLES CARROLL IN 1865.

We cannot do better in our illustrations of Jockey-life than give the portrait of this jockey, one of the most renowned on the Turf; and we are the more induced to do so from the fact, that the rapid strides he has made in his profession are as much attributable to his good character as to his well-known skill in the saddle. We shall, therefore, give our account, not only of his winning performances of the past year, but also a short history of his previous career. Charles Carroll was born at Manchester in 1849, and like his celebrated rival, J. Grimshaw, is now in his twentieth year. He entered the late John Osborne's stable, at Middleham, at the age of twelve, and appeared first in public at the Liverpool Autumn Meeting, November 9, 1860, in a handicap plate, wherein he rode Weasel (4 yrs, 6st 11lb), out was not placed. His next essay in the pigskin was more successful, for, with the same horse, he won the Members' Plate, at Pontefract, in the following summer, beating Flotilla by half a length; the favourite, Rab at the Bowster, third. It is not our intention to follow him through all his Turf career, his doings in the past season being with Le Marechal. Speculation on this race was very spirited, Manrico, Idle Girl, Doctor Syntax, and Le Marechal, all being freely supported, but although Gaily started at the long price of 20 to 1, there were many good judges and adherents of poor old John Osborne's stable who followed this popular jockey, thus bringing off the first "good thing" of the year.

Liverpool was a fortunate meeting for Carroll, as he won the Spring Cup on Nu, after a magnificent race, and a most determined set-to with Wandering Minstrel, Jemmy Grimshaw in the saddle. This was another lucky victory for Osborne's stable, as Nu started at the nice price of 100 to 8, and Carroll's backers were enthusiastic in their praises of his artistic riding. The Sefton Handicap he won with Wild Duck, and the following week at Doncaster he won the Trial Stakes on The Pirate. At Warwick he carried off two handicap plates with Gowsman; and appears next as a winner at Lewes, where he won a plate with Shamrock, another long shot, 10 to 1 being easily obtained. In the Tyne Spring Handicap, at Newcastle, he was successful with Gayous, overthrowing a great favourite in Wetsail.

The following week he won the Trial Stakes at Darham on Roderick Random, the Baines Plate at Catterick Edge, with Jig, and the Members' Plate at Thirsk on Little Dame. At Epsom Spring Meeting he obtained a "situation" with Swordsman in the City and Suburban, finishing third to Argonaut and The Grinder; and the following day the Philippa Handicap; at Beverley, the Beverley Cup on Clab Queen; the Grimston Plate with Madras; the following day the Hull Stakes with Penhill, defeating Bonads, on whom odds of 5 to 2 were freely laid; and the following week, at Newton, he won the Maiden Plate with Ned Digby. His next victorious mount was on Brown Broad for the Northumberland Plate, when, after a slashing race, Callor On was defeated by a neck. The old mare was a great favourite at 9 to 4, "the Broad" being in demand at 5 to 1, and both were very freely supported. Carroll, when it came to the final struggle, rode the young one with such vigour and skill, that he shook off Callor On a few strides from the chair, and to his brilliant horsemanship the victory is mainly attributable.

At Carlisle he won the Athletic Handicap, with Lady of Coverdale, the Consolation Scramble with Flower of Yarrow, the Castle Plate at Pontefract with Macintosh, and is next recorded as a winner at Stamford, where he won the Borough Members' Plate for Lord Stamford on Desree, and the Clifton Cup for Lord Anglesey with Calceus, the starting price in each instance being 7 to 1. At Nottingham July Meeting he was successful with Gowsman in the County Members' Plate, overthrowing Atsche, on whom odds of 7 to 4 were freely laid. He was again successful in Lord Stamford's colours, at Goodwood, in the Ham Stakes, wherein he rode Valeria, starting at 7 to 1, defeating a great favourite in Crown Prince, on whom odds of 5 to 4 were laid, large sums being invested at that figure. The following day the the object of our careful analysis. It will therefore be sufficient for our purpose to say that his apprenticeship does not expire until next October.

Although he has not ridden the winner in any of the great handicaps, he has been second two years in succession for the Chester Cup—on Little Stag, in Flash-in-Pan's year, and on Backfoot last year, when Dalby won; but his most memorable race was on Gratitude for the Cesarewitch, when, after one of the most exciting struggles ever witnessed, Thalassius won by a head. It is gratifying to know the friendly feeling that exists between two such formidable rivals as J. Grimshaw and Carroll. We understand that the first-named is entertaining Carroll at his house at Newmarket during the recess. We may mention that Charles is a brother to William Carroll, a light-weight of some celebrity, but who has been dead some time. During the past year Charles Carroll became so identified with Lord Stamford's colours that it was quite as natural to see him in the "blue and black belt," as Fordham in the "hoops" of the Duke of Beaufort.

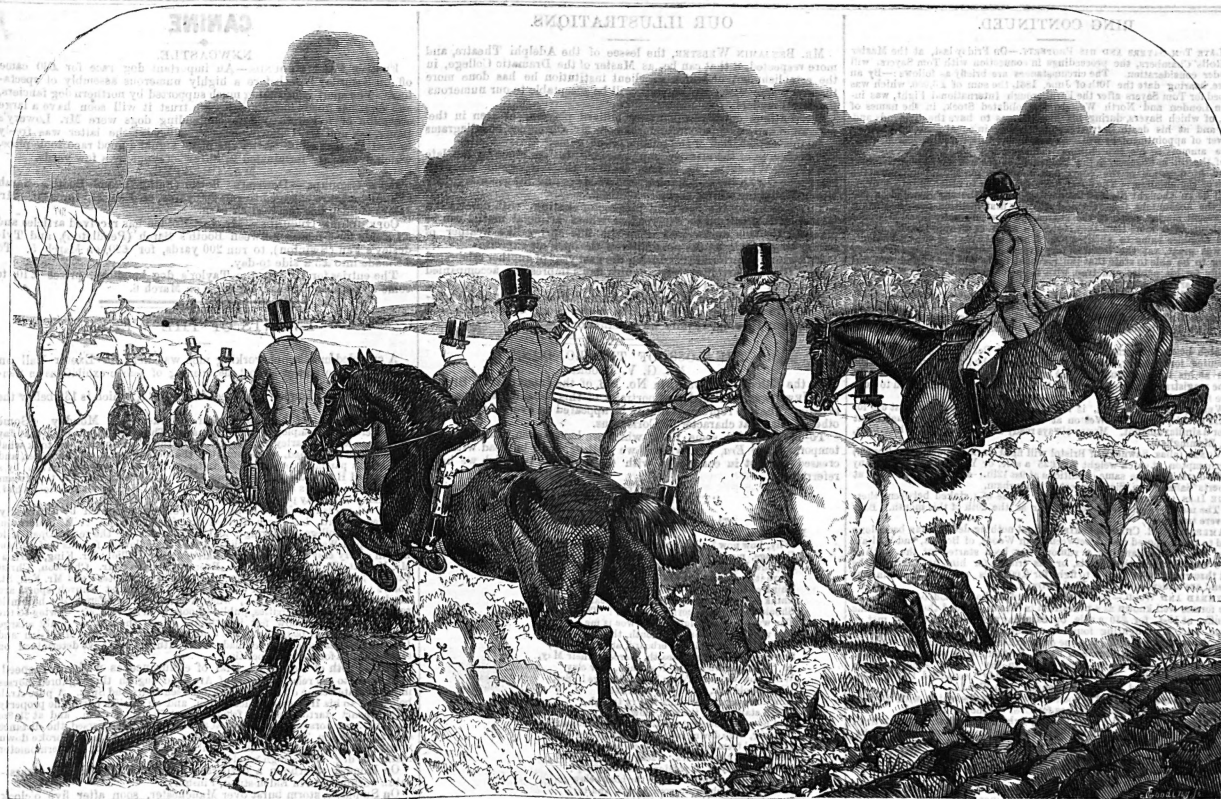

Carroll was early in the field, commencing the season at Manchester on Saturday, January 7, when he rode Nu, in the Trial Handicap, finishing second to Rose; but he did not again appear on the scene until the legitimate Turf drama of 1865, in which he was destined to play so prominent a part, commenced at Lincoln. He was unsuccessful in his first three mounts; but he fully compensated his backers for their confidence by winning the Lincolnshire Handicap (the first race of any importance in the early part of the year) with Gaily, after a fine race he did a good turn for his backers by winning the Waterloo Plate with Nip. Advance was a hot favourite for this race, the "talent" freely laying odds of 6 to 1, while Carroll's backers could get the remunerative price of 100 to 7, and after a fine display of horsemanship he won literally in the last stride by a head. Carroll rode Backfoot in the Chester Cup, starting at 100 to 6, and the race will long be remembered for the determined struggle between Dalby (then known as the Highflyer's dam colt) and Backfoot, and although Carroll rode the latter in the most determined manner, Dalby, with the best of the weights, outstayed him and won by a neck. He won the Catterick Handicap on Lucy Long, a handicap with Gipsy Girl, the starting price of the first-named being 5 to 1, the latter 100 to 15, and he next appears as a winner at the Bath Meeting, winning the Somersetshire Stakes in Lord Stamford's colours on Armagnac, about whom 100 to 8 could be had for asking.

At Harpenden, three days later, he won the principal race of the meeting (the Harpenden Handicap) on Jovington, the favourite, who, at 3 to 1, was backed for large sums; and on Tuesday, at Epsom, he achieved a great triumph by winning the Brighton Stakes with Gowsman, starting at 20 to 1. His fortunate backers were in ecstasies at such a lucrative investment coming off, and Lord Stamford was particularly gratified at the success of the son of Surplice and Tomprie. The Grand Stand Stakes, on Thursday, he won with Bolono, starting at 5 to 1, and concluded the Derby week by winning the Ewell Plate on Indignation. At Manchester, with Jig, he won popular "blue and black belt" was again successful with him, defeating Tollerbon with Archimedes; and with the same horse he beat Long-down easily in the Racing Stakes, odds of 2 to 1 being laid on him. The concluding day at Goodwood again saw him win for the Lord of Exville, with Thalassius, in a handicap sweepstakes, and he concluded his victorious with a brilliant one for Lord Uxbridge, winning the Nursery Stakes on Life Guardsman, beating a field of eighteen and starting at 100 to 8. In the Goodwood Cup, Carroll rode Cambesau, and, although he could not beat Ely, he rode the horse most judiciously, defeating Ely for the second money very cleverly. Some persons imagined that with so much dead weight Carroll could not ride the horse out, but the manner in which Cambesau performed with Ely at Brighton (with that splendid horseman, J. Wells, in the saddle), where he was meeting his former conqueror on 5lb better terms, proved that Carroll did all that could possibly be done with the horse. At Brighton he won the Champagne Stakes with Archimedes, the Pavilion Plate with Arkansas, and the Fourteenth Brighton Biennial Stakes with Valeria. He next appeared at Ripon, St. Wilfrid, where he won the Commemorative Plate with Lady of Coverdale, the Great St. Wilfrid Handicap on Red Earl, the Stulley Handicap with Jig; and at Wolverhampton he won the Cleveland Cup on Cambesau; and the Borough Members' Plate with Thalassius. At Knutsford he won a sweepstakes with Brelui, and at Stockton he won six races; the Town Plate with Kapunda, the Harry Fowler Stakes with Excoller, the Wynyard and Corporation Plates with Skylark, the Elton Juvenile and Garbutt Nursery Stakes with Haphazard, and at York, the Prince of Wales's Stakes for Two Year Olds on Chibbis, walking over for the Black Duck Stakes with Esca, at the Doncaster September Meeting he won the Glasgow and Eglinton Stakes with Chibbis, the Cleveland Handicap with Sundeloh, the greatest outsider in the race, starting at 100 to 8, the Don Stakes on Archimedes, and walked over with the same horse for a Sweepstakes of 200 sovs each. He won the Cup at Richmond with Skylark, the Volunteer Plate with Chessman, the Belay Castle Nursery on Dart, at the outside price of 11 to 1, and on Saturday at Manchester he won the Grand Stand Plate with The Inch, the Trafford Handicap with Desdemona, and the Northern Metropolitan Handicap on Niva.

He was successful at the Newmarket First October Meeting with Willie Sharpo and Salliett in sweepstakes, with Esca in the Eighteenth Triennial Produce Stakes, starting at 10 to 1, and defeating Robin Hood (Baron Rothschild's), Crown Prince, Ischia, all of whom were backed heavily, after a clipping finish; and on Chibbis he won the Rutland Stakes. At the second October he won a Handicap Sweepstakes with Baron Rothschild's Guinivore, in the same popular colours won with Zephyr on Friday, and at the Newmarket Loughton Meeting was successful with Chessman. He won the Visitors' Plate with Tili, at the Worcester Autumn Meeting; the Blankney Handicap, at Lincoln, with Exceller; the Battelfield Handicap with Overture at Shrewsbury; and the County Members' Plate with Thalesius. The success of Miss Harriette in the Second Nursery Handicap was a lucky win for Captain Maccholl (who had just previously purchased the filly for 700 sovs) and Carroll's backers, 20 to 1 being obtainable up to the close.

Two wins on Gulnara completed the brilliant career of this jockey during the past season. As will be seen, Carroll has been singularly fortunate in winning with horses at a long price, and we have but to enumerate the Lincolnshire Handicap, Gaily, at 20 to 1; Liverpool Spring Cup, No. 100 to 8; Waterloo Plate, Epson, Nip, 100 to 1; Somersetshire Stakes, Armagrac, 100 to 8; Brighton Stakes, Gownman, 20 to 1; Northumberland Plate, Brown Bread; the Nursery, at Goodwood, Life Guardsman, 100 to 8, from among the long list of his victories, to illustrate the advantages those backers who followed Carroll in all his mounts have had over any others. In our next impression we shall recapitulate the victories of H. Custance.

Another of Batty's Honeuses, at Paris, named Fatme, gave birth, a few nights since, to three fine cubs.

DENT'S NEW RACING WATCH.

Viper times August 9th, 1865.—The race was timed with an improved chronograph watch, manufactured by M. F. Dent of Cockspur-street. By pressing a spring, a centre second and minute hand are started, and by a second pressure (at the conclusion of the race) both hands are stopped, thus registering the time in minutes and seconds on the face of the dial. On a third pressure the hands fly back to a state of rest at 12.

PROSPECTUS.

This Company has been formed for the purpose of effecting insurances on horses in the event of death or accident.
The fact that there is no insurance company of the same description at present existing, and the desire to insure horses against casualties, promise a more than average amount of success to the undertaking, and from calculations based upon the general principle of insurance, a dividend of 30 per cent., irrespective of bonuses, is confidently anticipated by the directors.
The principles upon which the business of the Company will be carried on may be seen by the following table—
